

PRESS RELEASE

RARE TRADESMAN—CHRIS WOOLCOCK ROCKING HORSE MAKER, RESTORER AND TEACHER TO FEATURE AT SYDNEY ROYAL SHOW 2007 APRIL 10 & 11—ARTS PAVILION HALL 3 - DEMONSTRATION STAGE

Australia's only full time rocking horse makers, restorers and teachers will feature on the demonstration stage in the Arts Pavilion at this year's Sydney Royal on April 10 & 11. Rare tradesman Chris Woolcock and his partner Viktoria Darabi will demonstrate the art and science of making and restoring rocking horses. Their stage display will include carousel, vintage and their made to order rocking horses.

With 30 years experience and over 5000 rocking horses to his credit, Chris will talk about and demonstrate various techniques and power carving of modern day rocking horses as well as entertaining observers with stories from his evolution as a rocking horse maker. He will also provide information about the restoration of old horses.

Viktoria will demonstrate the fitting out of a rocking horse and provide informative presentations on where to find old rocking horses, carousel horse trivia and more.

Both Chris and Viktoria will be available to answer your rocking horse questions and if visitors care to bring a photo of their old rocking horse, they will be happy to date, identify the manufacturer and provide an opinion on value. Do not miss this rare opportunity to see Chris & Viktoria in action.

For more info, photos or interviews contact: Viktoria Darabi on 4577-8697

Showtime only on 0415 676 238